

ABSTRACT

A method for producing human cell lines by immortalising a precursor or undifferentiated cell with a controllable immortalising agent, culturing the cell to provide a cell population, and terminating immortalisation to allow differentiation.

2009-04-09 15:00:00